

As the only inn at Kolberg, the "Alter Dorfkrug", was booked out in the summer of 1929, the innkeeper (who was also in charge of the postal service) had to put the Nabokovs up in a shack in his back yard.

Photo: DEZ 2014